Cancellation due to illness such as travelers' diarrhea, giardia or dysentery is not considered an emergency and full penalties will apply. If you are booking this trip in advance from overseas, please consider purchasing cancellation insurance to protect yourself from such unexpected situations. Depending on the situation a transfer of payment to an alternate departure might be considered at the discretion of Paddle Nepal management for a fee to be determined at that time. Under no circumstances will a refund or transfer be considered if you do not show up at the departure point or if you voluntarily (or involuntarily) leave the trip prematurely.

Common Sense & Basic Rules

Participants of any Paddle Nepal trip are encouraged to respect the local people, culture and environment. If you do (or bring) drugs, purposely injure a fellow participant or crew member, purposely damage equipment, steal from a fellow participant or crew member or break the law in anyway – you will be asked to leave the trip early at your own expense with absolutely no refund and we may choose to press charges. You are welcome to drink alcohol, but please do so responsibly and only once we have reached camp. Whitewater rafting & kayaking are adventurous activities and intoxicated paddlers are an extreme risk to themselves, fellow participants as well as to our guides & instructors whose job is to keep you safe. If you are found drinking alcohol immediately before or during river activities you will be asked to leave the trip at your own expense with absolutely no refund.

I have read, fully understand and agree to the terms and conditions as provided to me by Paddle Nepal with regards to the trip I am joining. I recognize the realities and risks involved with the related adventure activity and I take full responsibility for any injury or loss during my participation. I fully understand the relative remoteness, rough travel conditions, unpredictable weather and relatively limited medical facilities and am prepared to accept such challenges. I also appreciate that rivers and rapid grades fluctuate and Paddle Nepal can not guarantee exact conditions per descriptions made in marketing collateral. By signing the front of this booking form I release Paddle Nepal of any responsibility for my loss or injury during my participation and I agree to all terms and conditions as outlined.
